SEEK BLACK LEGION PROBE

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27.—Three blows to the New Deal in one day is quite a record.

One: The supreme court knocked out another encroachment on the rights and duties of the states, deciding against federal "debt readjustment" for local government units. Debt readjustment in plain English is closely akin to repudiation and is not approved by the supreme court.

Two: Mr. E. Claude Babcock, head of the American Federation of Government Employees, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, sharply arraigned Mr. Farley and other bureaucrats for wrecking the Civil Service by making political clearance the test for job holding in place of fitness.

Three: The senate refused to provide funds for the grandiose shelterbelt scheme to plant trees in strips across the drouth areas of the country from the Canadian to the Mexican borders. Trees already ordered are to be given to the farmers, whose judgment of where to plant them is surely better than an arbitrary federal plan could be.

This run of bad luck just as the campaign is about to begin saddens the hearts of more than one of our prophets of the millennium.

ALICE LONGWORTH.

While it may seem early in the season, it's a fact that weed cutting along streets and highways is already necessary for the season. In several localities the men with the scythes have been at work and they are needed at many others. Keeping the weeds cut down is going to be quite a task this summer, if early growth is any indication.

Unnoticed in the early running, Mahmoud came up from behind on the heart-breaking uphill grind at notorious Tattenham corner, the two-thirds point, to romp ahead of the field on the home stretch and win by a comfortable three lengths.

With the ground dry, hard, and fast, Mahmoud's spurt set a record for the 153rd renewal of the classic. His new record was 2 minutes, 33 3-5 seconds. Mahmoud shattered by one-quarter second the mark set by Hyperion in 1933 and equalled by Windsor Lad in 1934.

CONTROVERSY OVER GAS TAX INCREASE

Senate Committee To Start W.P.A. Probe In Philadelphia Friday Morning

By A. NORMAN GAGE

HARRISBURG, May 26.—Administration leaders strove to get the last of Gov. George H. Earle's $80,000,000 tax program bills unday way today as the legislature met to round out the fourth week of its special session.

As the result of a long and stormy caucus of house Democrats, they were confident that a new bill, ready for introduction, would overcome obstacles in the path of the proposed one-cent increase in the gasoline tax.

Over the protests of a dozen Democrats who wanted the gasoline measure scrapped, the caucus agreed to support the second edition of the administration bill. The first edition, amended to exempt gasoline used on farms, in stationary engines and for purposes other than propelling automobiles, motor boats and airplanes, is to be abandoned in the ways and means committee.

Beaver County Posse Hunting Young Fugitive

Hills Between Aliquippa And Monaca Are Being Scoured

FUGITIVE FLED IN POLICE CAR

Car Abandoned In Woods—Suspect Seeks Food At Several Farmhouses

(International News Service)

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., May 27.—Ordered to shoot their quarry on sight, a heavily-armed posse of local, county and state police today scoured the hills between here and Monaca for Mike Buncich, 27, who disarmed two police who sought to arrest him yesterday and fled in their car.

The possemen were spurred by reports the hunted man sought food at two farm houses in the hills. The identifications were virtually positive, the searchers said.

Snatches Officer's Gun

Patrolmen John Shea and William Padavich said when they went to the Buncich home to arrest the man for robbing a barber shop, he suddenly snatched the revolver from Padavich's holster and trained it on Shea. He then disarmed Shea and after firing five wild shots at the policemen, ran from the house and fled in the police car.

The car was found abandoned on a steep hill above West Aliquippa and school boys said a man leaped from the car and fled into the thick underbrush nearby.

Seeks Food

Shortly after dark last night, a man believed to be Buncich asked for food at a farm house near Colona. A little girl who answered his knock became frightened and slammed the door in his face. Later a man asked for food at a farm near the Union cemetery on Brodhead road and was again refused.

Chief of Police W. L. Ambrose and County Detective Charles A. O'Loughlin said the identifications were positive in their opinion.

Delegates to the state convention of the American Legion, which will be held in Johnstown, during the latter part of August, were named at the meeting of the Perry S. Gaston Post, in the Legion Home last evening.

The delegates elected were Clarence S. Jarrett, James C. Brice, Norman P. Nelson and Thomas Edmunds.

The alternates are Ivor M. Richards, John D. Kennedy, George Slack and Dave Tobin.

Commander Moorhead announced the appointment of Earl C. Moffatt as chairman of the sick and visitation committee in place of Guy J. Wadlinger. He also announced the appointment of Dave Tobin and Norman P. Nelson as members of the N. Y. A. committee.

Arrangements were made for the members of the post to meet at Greenwood cemetery, Thursday evening at 6:30, for the decoration of the graves of the veterans who are buried in that cemetery.

An appetizing lunch was served after the meeting by the kitchen committee.

President Insists On Increasing Tax Bill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—With President Roosevelt insisting congress impose enough new taxes to balance his ordinary budget before it adjourns, the senate finance committee today began a new upward revision of its $642,000,000 tax bill.

At a night conference in the white house, the president told Democratic leaders of the committee he desired the new tax bill to raise $620,000,000 of permanent new revenue and $517,000,000 of temporary revenue. He expressed dissatisfaction with the committee's completed bill, which would raise $560,000,000 of new permanent revenue, all from corporations and their stockholders, and but $82,000,000 of temporary revenue.

His decree prompted the Democratic chieftains to promise an upward revision of the corporation taxes they previously wrote into the revised bill. Treasury officials were ordered to prepare a new set of estimates on higher corporate levies for submission to the committee this afternoon.

Some Democrats on the committee were threatening revolt, charging treasury experts had underestimated the inticipated revenue of the taxes written into the bill. There was slight chance of a successful revolt since administration forces control the committee.

Dr. Townsend Raises Issue

Action Is Test Of Extent To Which Constitutional Authority Permits Probes

CHARGES HEARING WAS INQUISITION

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Completely overshadowing the old-age pension investigation, the "walkout" of Dr. Francis E. Townsend from a congressional committee, and refusal of two of his aides even to appear to testify, emerged today as a major test of the extent to which constitutional authority permits Congress to go in its hearings.

The gray-haired 70-year-old founder of the pension movement asserted, through his attorney, Sheridan Downey, that he would carry his case before the supreme court, if necessary, to prove he is in the right.

Dr. Townsend contends he was justified in refusing to submit to further questioning by the House committee on the grounds that he was subjected to "inquisitionary" methods, browbeaten by his ques-

EXTENSIVE PROBE WILL BE SOUGHT

Congressman Says Several Besides "Black Legion" Would Be Included

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Chairman Dickstein (D) of New York, of the house immigration committee today announced that he will introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the "black legion" and kindred organizations.

He said that he would seek an appropriation of $100,000 "so that congress can do a complete job of unmasking these damnable outfits."

"After working most of the night I am getting my resolution prepared," said Dickstein. "It will propose the appointment of a select house committee to make the inquiry.

"At least $100,000 should be provided. There are a half dozen organizations in addition to the 'Black Legion', which must be rooted out.

Halted Two Years Ago

Dickstein declared lack of funds probably prevented a house committee two years ago from ferreting out the "Black Legion."

The committee which investigated Nazi, communism and other un-American activities encountered the "Black Shirts," from which the "Black Legion" probably is an offshoot, he said.

"A resolution to continue our investigation was blocked," he said. "I have today received letters from American citizens urging that congress take action," he said.

PUSH NEW GUFFEY COAL BILL

Early Vote In House Sought

Committee Approves Substitute For Guffey Coal Law By 18-6 Vote

PRICE FIXING IS ISSUE IN MEASURE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A major experiment in price-fixing through the substitute Guffey coal law, which may revive debate over suspension of anti-trust laws, appeared likely to win house approval as sponsors of the bill today clamored for an early vote.

Approved in record time by an 18 to 6 vote of the ways and means committee, the Guffey-Vinson bill would reenact price-fixing and marketing provisions of the Guffey law, which was invalidated by the supreme court.

Expects Speedy Action In House

Although house leaders professed to have no direct word from President Roosevelt, Chairman Doughton (D) of North Carolina, of the committee, said he expected speedy action in the house.

The bill, approved in a dramatic, one-day meeting of the committee behind closed doors, loomed as one of the most important measures of the session, because for the first time price-fixing is proposed without being tied to labor provisions.

Price-fixing was permitted under the Guffey law, invalidated because of its labor provisions, but no effort had been made to fix prices. Sponsors of the new bill expect prices of coal to be fixed under it.

While sponsors were certain of house action, they had no assurance that the senate will consider the measure in its head-long rush for adjournment.

Seek To Drive Senate

Once the house has acted operators favoring the bill and the United Mine Workers planned a relentless drive to force senate approval.

Strong opposition was forecast in the house from members who declare that price-fixing is a "dangerous political and economic experiment," which contributed to the downfall of NRA.

"It is a dangerous principle in economics and in government," said Rep. Reed (R) of New York. "I am not sure that the revised bill is constitutional. I think it will be disastrous to the bituminous coal industry in the long run, although it may help at first.

"If you run up prices you force people to turn to substitutes. At the present time the government is forcing utilities to lower rates. When the utilities begin to impinge upon the coal industry, the demand will be made that the government force an increase in rates."

Rep. Vinson (D) of Kentucky who, with Senator Guffey (D) of Pennsylvania, is author of the new bill, was confident of house approval.

DR. TOWNSEND RAISES ISSUE

tioners, and forced to answer questions tending to besmirch the character of himself and his organization without a chance of defense.

"Hearings Are Inquisitions"

"There has been an increasing tendency on the part of Congress to turn its hearings into inquisitions and to persecute helpless citizens for purely poltical purposes," Townsend declared through his attorney

"This is a destructive tendency that can have only the result of undermining Democratic government and bringing a dictatorship into being.

"I patiently answered the committee's questions for two days and a half, and withdrew only when it became patent that I was having to submit to an inquisition and that the committee was solely interested in destroying my movement with a reckless disregard of its merits."

Townsend declared he was given no opportunity to present his old-age pension plan or to defend himself.

"No Fear of Consequences"

"I have no fear of the consequences if they do prosecute," he asserted. "If they attempted to give me a sentence commensurate with my contempt for their attitude, it would have to be a life sentence."

Should! he be cited for contempt and judged guilty, Townsend said he would fight the conviction to the limit.

"I'm fighting not only for myself and my movement," he said, "but for the fundamental rights of every citizen as guaranteed by the constitution."

Dr. Townsend's challenge re-echoed criticism in high circles that has been directed at many recent congressional investigations. Congress is empowered to conduct hearings to obtain information on pending legislation, but the contention of many authorities is that the power is sharply defined. Seizure of private telegrams by the Black committee in the Senate's investigation of lobbies has been challenged in the federal courts.

DEMOCRATS HAVE STORMY CAUCUS OVER TAX PLANS

ed on unemployment relief appropriations for an indefinite period, starting June 1, the house was scheduled to advance two other revenue bills. One imposes a tax of three-fourths of a mili per kilowatt hour of electricity, the other levies a tax of one-half cent per gallon on fuel oil. Still in the ways and means committee are administration bills to increase the license fees on heavy trucks and trailers.

A senate-approved total of $4,931,211 represents the probable basis on which the next emergency appropriation will be made to the State Emergency Relief board. The house approved the preliminary resolution yesterday with a figure of $6,931,211, after defeating Republican proposals to reduce the amount to $5,500,000. Senate Democrats who concurred in the $4,931,211 appropriation did so with the announced understanding that, if the SERB needs more money during June, it will furnished.

Administration Setbacks.

House Republicans, though defeated in their effort to cut the relief appropriation, were encouraged by surprise setbacks which they administered to administration leaders yesterday. In one move, they routed administration forces trying to recommit a resolution requiring the SERB to supply the names of non-Pennsylvania residents on the relief payroll. In another, they discharged a Democratic-controlled committee from further consideration of a resolution asking State WPA Administrator Edward N. Jones to furnish data on the number of his non-relief employes.

Arrangements for another study of WPA facts, figures and policies also were made yesterday. The Owlett senate committee organized and completed plans to start public hearings Friday morning at 10 o'clock in Philadelphia.

Seek W. P. A. Information.

Still more senate requests for information were made with the approval of resolutions calling for tax data and SERB expenditures of families and individuals whose weekly earnings exceed $5. A resolution sponsored by Sen. Theodore L. Bean, Montgomery Republican, requests the department of revenue to supply up-to-date information on revenues and current estimates of receipts from the 1935 corporation net income, personal property and cigaret taxes. A resolution by Sen. John J. McClure asks SERA Director Karl De Schweinitz to supply the data on supplementary relief payments by next week, if possible.

Two bills were reported from committee and were given first-reading approval in the senate. One appropriates for May relief the $3,630,000 transferred from special funds, the other abolishes the office of delinquent tax collector in Allegheny county.

Among four bills passed by the house and sent to the senate were measures intended to save $500,000 a year in interest charges by refunding $11,200,000 of highway bonds.

On Governor Earle's desk today were the first two bills to be passed by both branches, one transferring $6,630,000 from special funds to the general fund for relief expenditures and the other appropriating $365,000 for legislators' salaries and other expenses of the special session.

MAHMOUD WINS AT EPSOM DOWNS BY FINE FINISH

Thankerton, an outsider that paid many thousands of dollars at the rate of 33 to 1, completed the mile-and-a-half third.

The American hope, Boswell, with an estimated $300,000 bet right on his nose, never showed for a moment. Owned by William Woodward of New York, Boswell went to the post a joint second favorite at 7 to 1.

Pay Up, who became the overnight favorite at shortened odds of 5 to 1, gave Lord Astor another disappointment by finishing fourth. The American-born peer has had five second horses in the derby, but never a winner.

The field of 22 got away to a good start at the end of the horseshoe shaped track, opposite the grand-stand, after five minutes' delay caused by the nervousness of several of the keyed-up three-year olds.

Mahmoud, who twice backed away from the tape, was one of the trouble-makers.

accurate, "boat tail" bullets, which kill or maim so cruelly that they have been outlawed by the government.

Police, mostly familiar with the fighting tactics of modern gangland, frankly shuddered over the sinister discovery, as they continued their roundup of the fanatical terrorists, at least 38 of whom were being hunted in the state.

Whipping Evidence

Harry Colburn, the prosecutor's chief investigator, who has been checking death records after astounding reports that many mysterious deaths were decreed by the gun-crazed, power-seeking clan, said his men found the deadly slugs in several raids yesterday at suburban Ecorse, while hunting leaders in that reputed stronghold of the cult.

At the same time, Colburn announced he has definite evidence of several brutal whippings of wayward members by the cult in this area. Colburn indicated another roundup of cultists was in prospect as a result of the evidence. One youth, who had taken the crazy pledge of the society, was beaten into unconsciousness because he tried to quit the cult, which boasts no ex-members. Colburn said he expected to announce further arrests and details of the floggings later today.

No U. S. Action Yet

Washington, May 27.—Attorney General Cummings said today he is following the investigation of Michigan's "Black Legion" through the newspapers, but that the justice department cannot participate because of lack of federal jurisdiction.

"No federal law violation has been involved so far," Cummings said.

Michigan authorities have transmitted no request for justice department aid in tracking down members of the legion, he added.

Natives Still Battle Italians

(International News Service)

Advancing Italian troops were three day's march away, according to the report.

Saio is the location of an American mission and the surrounding terrritory of Wallega province has not as yet been conquered by the Italians.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

TWO ARE HONORED AT GARDEN PARTY

Aided by yesterday afternoon's delightful weather, the garden party for the ladies of the First Baptist Missionary society, at the lovely home of Mrs. J. A. Porte, Laurel boulevard, was a complete success.

The affair, attended by 75 guests, was in honor of Miss Elizabeth Hay, a missionary home on furlough from India, and Miss Beulah Heaton, who is leaving during the latter part of June for the Philippine Islands, where she will enter mission work.

The program of the afternoon was opened by Miss Alma Broadhead, who led devotions. The president of the society, Mrs. Jesse McCommon, then introduced Miss Hay, who gave a very interesting talk on her work and experiences in India. Then, in a very pleasing manner, Mrs. McCommon extended to Miss Heaton the love and best wishes of the society. Miss Heaton responded very graciously and told of her anticipations and plans for the future. She said that Miss Hay had given facts of her work but that "I can only offer dreams and the hope that these dreams may materialize into facts."

In behalf of the society, Mrs. C. T. Metzler, the treasurer, presented Miss Heaton with a beautiful purse containing a sum of money.

Mrs. Paul Weller sang two appropriate solos, "Do You Know a Garden?" and "To Eostra," accompanied by Mrs. Catherine Allen. Little Miss Virginia Baker gave a humorous reading, "When the Minister Comes to Tea," and offered as an encore, "Mother Entertained." A flute and piano number was offered by Mrs. W. C. McCalmont and daughter, Genevieve.

Mrs. McCommon appointed a committee of three, Mrs. N. L. Gardner, Mrs. Nathan Joseph and Mrs. W. H. Williams, to draw up a resolution to be filed as an appreciation for the thoughtfulness and generosity of a beloved deceased member, Mrs. Mary Hervey.

"White rose" suggestions for next year were given by Mrs. W. H. Williams; literature report was offered by Mrs. Frank Kelley, attendance by Mrs. David Nesbitt, and visiting by Mrs. William Harris.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Dorothy, and the committee, Mrs. William T. Sterling, Mrs. Jane Pattison, Mrs. L. D. Garratt, Mrs. William Eakin and Mrs. Boyd Russler. Tea was poured by Mrs. Jesse McCommon and Mrs. E. U. Snyder.

KEEP OFF THE PUBLIC GRASS AND SHRUBBERY!

EFFORTS of City Forester Owen P. Fox, the Lawrence County Garden Club, and numerous other individuals and civic organizations to keep a multitude of unthinking persons off the grass and shrubbery on the public square on Friday, the occasion of a circus parade in the city, appears to many like a trivial matter.

But it is not.

Mr. Fox, acting for the city, at the exhortation of various civic clubs, has been working for several years to make the public square a real place of beauty. Trees, grass, shrubbery, etc., have been planted, and coaxed along until the square really presents an inviting appearance at the present time.

But half an hour's tramping over the grass and shrubbery by a crowd of unintentional despoilers, such as the host viewing a parade of any kind, can undo all of the efforts of those who would beautify the plot.

It is the idea of the authorities at city hall that by detouring the circus parade so that it will not pass through the square, the destruction will be avoided. This is probably the only answer to the anxiety of those who want to see the beauty of the square preserved.

But this only meets one day's possibility of peril for the grass plots.

It should be the aim of every citizen of New Castle to take individual pride in seeing that on all other days this summer, trespassing over the grass plots and the shrubbery shall be avoided.

Keep our public square looking as beautiful as it is today!

BRIGHTER PROSPECTS FOR GRADUATES

SINCE 1930, graduates of the colleges and universities of the country have passed through the portals of learning to face a future which offered little promise of employment. These years have been a period of great trial for young men and women whose educations have been acquired at great sacrifices by themselves and their parents. Graduates of 1936 look forward toward brighter horizons, and for this reason the coming June will be invested with a traditional joy which has not been apparent for several years—that particular joy which comes from confidence that the years of study and work will find practical reward in the form of an opportunity to earn a living.

A statement recently by the head of Carnegie Tech is significant of the improved outlook. "All good students already have jobs," he said. "Twice as many companies as last year have sent interviewers to the campus." Columbia reports a similar improvement. More jobs await graduates than at any time in the last five years. Four times as many recruiting representatives have interviewed seniors. Colleges and universities in every section of the country are experiencing the benefits of better economic conditions and, what is most gratifying, are turning out their graduates this year with the reassuring knowledge that their status at the end of June will not be merely that of recruits to the army of the unemployed.

Technical institutions report a demand for graduates in many instances two hundred per cent higher than last year, while an average for institutions of higher learning generally is twenty-five per cent. With this improvement, one phase of the many-faced tragedy of the depression is eliminated, or at least minimized. Youth is not required to take up the difficult business of life under circumstances conducive to despair.

THE MONTH OF ROSES

June has been called the month of roses. The ideal of a former generation was a rose covered cottage. It was conceived that when a young couple built their nest in such a home, the setting of beauty must create happiness. Someone has called roses "the smiles of God's goodness."

Gardeners tell of the warfare of dew and other foes. The rose is an epitome of life, suggesting that no happiness can be reached in which there are not battles to be fought. Said Christiana Rossetti:

The rose saith in the dewy morn,
I am so fair;
Yet all my loveliness is born,
Upon a thorn.

How that expresses life! We may strive for success, but if we attain it it brings troubles, as the loveliest rose may scratch us with its thorns. But the gardener does not root up his roses because of those sharp points, and, we should not draw back from life's ambitions because of the pains incidental to the struggle.

Civilization in Ethiopia began with the expulsion of newspaper reporters.

Max Baer is now an orchestra leader. This may be the young man's forte, after all.

G-men experience the emotions of Alexander the Great. Not a single kidnaper left to conquer.

Women are the most successful peddlers. Men won't buy from another man just to get rid of him.

The government will pay the bonus next month. The rest of us will pay it next year and the year after and the year after that and so on ad infinitum.

Suits will be "poured" on to men in the future, according to a prophecy before the International Association of Garment Makers. Reversing the practice sometimes necessary in bibulous quarters.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WHEN YOU read about news, as you do here, you can never be sure that the really important news is ever mentioned. An ant, climbing a mountain, does not see the mountain.

While Napoleon was waiting to cross the channel to attack England, contrary winds holding him back, he said to an attendant:

"Tell that American I can give him three minutes."

The American talked three minutes; Napoleon dismissed him, too busy to listen. The American was Fulton, trying to tell about his steamboat that could travel regardless of wind.

LEONARDO wrote constantly, devoted scores of pages to the art of mixing paints, but said nothing of Columbus' voyage, although it happened in his day.

Faraday, son of an English blacksmith, announced his discovery of magneto-electricity, basis of all electrical development, foundation of the world's electric companies, that employ billions of dollars and millions of men. Eminent British scientists agreed that Faraday's discovery was interesting, "but it would never be anything more than an amusing toy".

NO ONE knows what the really important news is as he skips headlines, occasionally stopping to read

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THAT MILLENEUM

Most people think that the world is getting better. Come rain, come shine, tomorrow is going to be a better day than today. We are going to be more honest; we are going to be more civilized, and things are going to be much better tomorrow than they are today.

These people feel this way because of the tremendous advancement in mechanical arts that the world has seen in the last fifty years. The world has advanced from canal boats to aeroplanes. It has advanced from the telegraphy cross-arm of Victor Hugo's day to the Wireless. It has seen wonderful improvements in living conditions—sanitary plumbing, electric light, electric power, magnificent roads criss-crossing the Nation from North to South, and form East to West, and so they think the world is getting better, but when the customs of the people are observed, the Milleneum seems far away.

Instead of a more highly civilized world, it seems to be reverting to the savage. Take music for instance—it is the tom-tom, the clashing cymbals and the braying trombones. Take the dance—instead of the stately minuet, there is the barbaric whirl of dances known as the rhumba and the tango. They give them names, but the same thing could be seen thousands of years ago around the camp fires of savages. We see women bobbing their gorgeous hair, painting not only their finger nails, but their toe nails. It is only a step to the jingling anklet, and why not? Even the men marcel their hair and run around in shorts and it is only a step to the nose ring, and why not?

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:19. Sun rises tomorrow 4:35.

We have said it many times before that Pennsylvania is the prettiest state in the Union at certain times of the year and that is most of the summer. One can very easily be proud of the grand old Keystone State.

During a depression Grinn & Barrit is the only firm bragging how well business holds up.

A secret society has a degree in it that is called the "Holstein Bull Degree." It's sort of a light degree, it is said. That degree would naturally create some curiosity at least among the cattle raisers.

CREAMED LIVER DISH

If the family is fond of liver dishes try this variation. Take one pound of liver and plunge into boiling water; remove and take off all skin and connective tissue; and grind with medium sized blade of food chopper or chop finely. Broil with small pieces of bacon for about seven minutes over a low flame and add white sauce made of the following ingredients: Three-fourths cup of milk; two tablespoons flour; two tablespoons butter, and one teaspoon salt. Serve on toast.

Candidates are so plentiful this year they are going to have to wear identification tags to keep from soliciting each other.

California hanged two kidnapers. That ought to slow kidnaping up a little bit.

You have a better chance with a streamlined car when it hits you on the street. You might slide over it to be dropped in the rear.

We wonder what some of the old time celery raisers would say if they could see how celery is dressed up in fancy paper these days. Celery surely has made progress in appearance.

Crowded theatres, costly cars on the streets, gas stations on practically every corner—and then we think we have a depression.

You can't measure a man's generosity by what he gives but only by what the gift cost him.

"Take your choice," said the magistrate to the seedy prisoner. "Ten days or ten dollars."

"I'll take the ten dollars, judge," answered the prisoner.

An ex-Republican office holder offers an interpretation of the initials "F. D. R." with the phrase "For Democratic Resurrection."

As it has been our custom for years we again call your attention to the fact that Memorial Day was not originated for the purpose of pulling off rough stuff. It is a day for honoring our soldier dead of all wars.

The trouble with most tax bills is when they are being thrown into the hopper, they hop right out again, and, as a rule, knock the taxpayer down.

A Pittsburgh judge told a woman applicant for a divorce that her husband's failure in business was not grounds for a divorce. She must have forgotten about the better or for worse business.

BRICK HOMES AND PAINT

Many home owners take it for granted that if their houses are of brick painting ceases to be a problem. Science, however, disagrees. Paint, according to Dr. Henry A. Gardner, chemist and scientist, seals the brick pores and keeps out driving rain. It is conceivable, he says, that a large brick building during a rainy period would absorb a ton or more of water which would result in a damp interior and increased fuel consumption. An exterior application of two or three coats of high grade paint should eliminate dampness from this source.

An actor and an actress eloped in an airplane at Hollywood and they asked to have the marriage annulled after being married two days. That lady makes up her mind quickly in many ways—and evidently regrets.

As a child, he will be good for a nickel. As a man, he feels cheated if heaven doesn't reward each act of virtue.

The Democrats will meet in the city where the constitution was written. They should get some inspiration there.

AND LINED WITH LEAD

The annual Yuletide season was having its effect aboard ship until the following conversation took place between a deck hand and a fireman:

"Do you want to chip in to buy the Skipper a Christmas present?"

"Sure, if you buy him something appropriate."

"What would you suggest?"

"How about a pair of nice handmade water wings, well ventilated!"

Saw a man drop $1.10 in a dime throw slot machine the other day and fail to get back a penny. That's not gambling.

A FOUL ON THE JUDGE

Joe Robinson, Dixon, Ill., contributes the following story about the chap who was accused of stealing poultry. Without calling a trial by jury, the court proceeded to question the defendant:

"Steal any turkeys!"
"No, sah!"
"Steal any geese?"
"No, sah!"
"Any guinea hens?"
"No, sah!"
"Any chickens?"
"No, sah!"
"Case dismissed."

Curious that a homeless man wrote the most enduring song about home. Only the other day I was reading what John Howard Payne, author of 'Home, Sweet Home," wrote about his famous song:

"How often have I been in the heart of Paris, Berlin, London, or some other city, and have heard persons singing or heard organs playing 'Home, Sweet Home,' without having a shilling to buy myself the next meal or a place to lay my head! The world has literally sung my song till every heart is familiar with its melody, yet I have been a wanderer from my boyhood, and, in my old age, have to submit to humiliation for my bread."

DEAR MISS MARKEL: My sister is to be married soon. Our parents are dead and we have no brothers or other near relatives here. She has made her home with my husband and me for about 10 years. How should her invitations and announcements be worded; also who should give her away?

Mrs. MACK D.

Answer: You and your husband should issue your sister's invitations and announcements thus: (Invitations) "Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony Blank request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their sister, Anne Mary Summers," etc., etc. (Announcements): "Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony Blank have the honor to announce the marriage of their sister, Anne Mary Summers," etc. etc.

Your husband should give her away.

Dear Miss Markel: A friend of mine is about to marry a girl in a distant city. The bride-to-be has sent me an invitation to which I must send my regrets. Should I send a gift? If so, to whom?

BEATRICE.

Answer: *If yours is an invitation to the reception, as well as to the church, a gift is required. If it is to the church ceremony only, you need send no gift, unless you especially wish to because of your close friendship with the bridegroom. Socialists Aid Republicans.
Do Neat Job Unwittingly.
Cite Conditions In Florida.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

THE REPUBLICANS did not expect the Socialists, preceding them in national convention in Cleveland, to help them—but they did. Sage Republicans are clipping excerpts from speeches of the Socialists in Cleveland—to be used against President Roosevelt's re-election.

To be sure, the Socialists do not desire to elect the Republicans, nor even to aid the Republicans in the slightest manner. But the Socialists seem to have apter speakers than the Republicans and have put into concise terms telling arguments against President Roosevelt.

The Republicans must gain the independent voters—and the Socialist arguments all are aimed at the independent voters. The Socialists have found themselves much in the same predicament as the Republicans—their hold on the independent vote has been drained by the New Deal.

The Socialists are hit on two sides: (1) the New Deal on the "conservative" side; the Communists on the "radical" side.

They may be extinguished by this pressure—and realize it.

BEWARE!

Norman Thomas, titular leader of the Socialist party, told the convention in Cleveland (as Republicans smiled):

"For Socialists openly or tactily to support President Roosevelt would be the one unforgivable act of the year.

"To support Roosevelt as a method of fighting reaction is to repeat the mistake of 1916, when we supported Wilson because he kept us out of war. It is to repeat the mistake of the German Social Democrats who voted for von Hindenburg because they did not want Hitler."

But do not mistake the Socialists. They desire you vote Socialistic, not Republican.

For, Thomas asks: "How can we escape economic catastrophe under Roosevelt or Landon? How can the Roosevelt Democrats or the Governor Davey Democrats of Ohio say that we have prosperity now? They can't, and the only hope is Socialism.

Thomas then reiterated the Socialist program:

Modern interpretation of the Declaration of Independence, pioneering in social adventure, social ownership of the means of production, and the end of private ownership of banks, mines and public utilities.

CHOICE G. O. P. BITS

But the choicest morsels (from a Republican standpoint) garnered from Thomas' various talks in Cleveland are these, concerning doings in Democratic states:

"In spite of some encouragement that labor has found to organize, the outlook for civil liberty is dark. Florida is a Democratic state. It is the state which the president makes the base of his winter vacations, it is the state where the perpetrators of a long line of floggings, kidnappings and murders have gone almost unwhipped of justice. . . . (Thomas added, later, that he was thrilled over the conviction of several floggers, but doubted that the judge would do much.)...

"Arkansas is another Democratic state whose cotton planters are represented in the United States senate by Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic floor leader. In three Arkansas counties there is a strike of white and colored cotton field hands against the worst tyranny in America. They are striking against wages of 50 to 75 a day. Only today I have received a telegram saying that in Crittenden county, these men, who have been of no violence, are being herded into a stockade, something I suppose of the sort that Hitler uses in Germany.

"I have communicated today with the federal government to find out whether the administration, which has so profoundly interfered in the cotton economy of the south, the administration which is so proud of its G-men, can or will do anything to protect American citizens against peonage.

"Perhaps the answer is that states' rights includes, especially in the Democratic south, the right to treat American citizens as Hitler treats his victims. . . ."

A CHUCKLE

The Republicans, although hoping the Socialists do not achieve their own aims, even indulged in a chuckle over this Thomas attack on the president:

"It is interesting to note that the president who so bravely was attacking the constitution of the horse and buggy age a while ago at a press conference, is now profoundly silent while the supreme court piles up evidence that there is no governmental authority in America adequate to the control of industry and the protection of workers. Obviously, by keeping still, he hopes to keep the support of his Bourbon Democratic colleagues and at the same time carry along a labor support which has learned to be thankful for small favors and a few kind words."

The Socialists favor a farmers' and workers' rights amendment to the constitution "which will give congress power to do what is necessary for the economic and social well-being of the American people."

A resolution to put such an amendment before the people was introduced in congress recently by Senator Benson, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite.

May 27, 1817.—Julia Ward was born in New York City, the future wife of Samuel Gridley Howe, whose own fame she eclipsed by writing the enduring "Battle Hymn of the Republic." The words for the hymn came to her as she lay in bed one night 75 years ago, after she had spent the day watching soldiers marching in Washington, D. C., to the tune of "John Brown's Body." The hymn became the marching song of the soldiers.

100 Years Ago Today—Jay Gould was born in Roxbury, Delaware county, New York, a farmer's son who had to go to work at 14. At 17 he was a surveyor whose services were in demand, and at 21, with money he had earned in land deals and acquired by marriage and with foresight which other men of the day did not possess, he bought the bonds of the Rutland & Washington R. R. at 10c on the $1 and began the career as railroad financier which enabled him to control, when he was 40, more than 10,000 miles of railroad. But he was still regarded as an upstart gambler and manipulator by older Wall Street financiers, who tried to squeeze him out.

Unfortunately, the watered-stock, frenzied finance era he had created did not die with him.

75 Years Ago Today.—A president defied an order of the Supreme Court of the United States! The president was Lincoln, only two months in the White House.

The Chief Jusicte, Roger Taney, had denied the right of the president to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, affirming that such a power was vested in congress alone and had ordered the release of one John Merryman, of Maryland, which, incidentally, was Taney's own state.

But Lincoln ignored the ruling and ordered the military officials in Maryland to continue to disregard writs of habeas corpus.

It's True—There were more troops of German blood in the War Between the States than any other race.

In the times of Charles I, the average male attire even in mild weather, weighed 20 pounds.

Gunpowder was once widely used as a dentifice.

The great French chancellor D'Aguesseau, noting that his wife always delayed 10 or 12 minutes coming down to dinner, devoted the time to writing a book. The result was, at the end of 15 years, a 3-volume work which sold in several editions.

You can be a king for $20,000. Five islands—Ensay, Groay, Lingay and the two Saghays—located north of Scotland, are for sale. The largest is 2½ miles long by 1½ miles wide.

Turkey and San Marino have been at war for 21 years without firing a shot! They declared war over the imprisonment of a Turkish tourist and haven't made up since. The Turks can't get at San Marino without going through Italy, and San Marino doesn't want to get at Turkey.

Open Warfare Flares Between A. F. Of L. And Committee Lewis Heads

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27—Open warfare between the A. F. of L. and the committee of industrial organization, of which John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is chairman, flared today when William Green, president of the federation, issued an ultimatum to the CIO to dissolve within two weeks.

If the CIO does not accede, the federation will face the problem either of expelling the rebellious unions or with backing down on its present demands, labor officials said.

Conflict On Union Policy

The Lewis group insists on establishment of a policy by which all new unions taken into the federation shall be industrial or vertical organizations, embracing all persons in a given industry, as opposed to various craft unions employed in a single industry. The federation favors craft unions. Green asserted the federation was not seeking publicity, saying "this serious situation within the A. F. of L. can best be solved with as little publicity as possible."

The federation's powerful executive council will meet here again in July and its principal deliberations will revolve around the widening breach between it and CIO.

Lewis Silent

In the meantime Lewis declined to comment on the situation, other than to say the United Mine Workers, the most powerful of the labor groups would immediately convene its executive council. It was indicated the miners would stand firmly in favor of industrial organization in each industry instead of developing further craft unions embracing specialized workers in certain fields.

The CIO has offered to open its war chest to the extent of $500,000 to organize the steel industry. This offer was accepted by the Amalgamated Association of iron, steel and tin workers of America at its recent convention in Canonsburg, Pa. The CIO also plans to organize workers in the automobile, rubber and in other major industries along industrial lines.

In addition to the UMW the other major unions in the CIO are: mill and smelter workers; International Ladies Garment workers; Amalgamated clothing workers; United Textile workers; flat glass workers; hat, cap and millinery workers; oil well and refinery workers, and the International Typographical Union.

about quintuplets, Joe Louis, a new "great pitcher", or something about Moscow.

You read that the British are discouraged. Germany threatening, Italy triumphant in Ethiopia despite all England could do, have destroyed English confidence, that flew so high in the recent jubilee year.

Fortunately for England, she often makes her best performance in times of discouragement.

THAT "BLACK LEGION" uncovered in Michigan, organized to "purify" America by secret murders and whippings, is not important news. The suggestion that a "dictator" might float in on such a movement is foolish.

THE "LEGION", said to number already 135,000 members, is only another reminder that man is, indeed, largely a mixture of tiger and monkey.

Prompt action with the electric chair, noose or wholesale firing squad makes the monkey run, and the tiger is compelled to run with him.

GERMANY has proved the "48-hours - from - Europe - to - America" possibility, with America looking on.

Now England is rushing preparations for a line of heavier-than-air planes to fly between England and America, starting in a few months, and the French, preparing a similar line, are negotiating for a halfway harbor at the Azores. The southern route was said said to the wisest by Lindbergh, shortly after his great flight.

IT IS some comfort to know that Lindbergh, an American, did lead the way on that occasion, also that the clipper ships flying the Pacific regularly are American ships and represent American energy.

That kind of energy accomplishes a good deal, if encouraged, or even let alone.

This one country possesses more than half the world's telephones and automobiles.

That is due to the fact that Americans know how to run telephones and build automobiles.

PAUL FAURE, who will be important in the new Socialist government of France, has a plan to prevent wars and discourage costly armaments with the aid of peace sanctions, or boycotts. Says he:

"If France, Britain, Sweden and Spain so desire they can prevent any Hitler or Mussolini from preparing or undertaking a war, simply by depriving them of iron ore, manganese and bauxite."

Monsieur Faure attacks, indirectly, the iron owners of his own country, whose supplies, eagerly sold, helped Hitler to rearm.

Unfortunately, war cannot be prevented so easily. The man who plans murder gets his pistol and the nation planning war accumulates war supplies far in advance.

Mahoning Valley Grange Has Meeting

Memorial Program Is Presented At Meeting In Grange Hall Tuesday Evening

Mahoning Valley grange met in the grange hall Tuesday evening, when the first and second degree was conferred by the Mahoning Valley degree team under the direction of Capt. Elma Robinson.

The program was in the nature of a memorial service for the members of the grange who have passed away during the year.

Murl Simon was in charge of the memorial service, which included the opening song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee", by the grange; reading, "The Tapestry Weaver," by Jack Korby. Flowers were placed at the altar in memory of Mrs. Anna Leeper, Harry Sherard and May Bruce, who died during the past year, by Mrs. Fred Martin, Mrs. G. L. Kelso and F. A. Montgomery. The 23rd Psalm was read by E. F. Munn, and all recited the Lord's Prayer.

A pantomime, "Nearer My God to Thee," was then presented by Wilda Simon, with Mrs. George Atkinson doing the singing.

At the next meeting on June 9 the third and fourth degree will be conferred. Practice will be held by the degree team in preparation for this event on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the grange hall.

Senate Sets Date For Hearing On Chain Store Tax

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Paving the way for its first formal attack on the administration's $80,000,000 tax program, the senate today arranged a public hearing on the proposed chain store tax for June 2 as it advanced two other measures through second reading.

A chain store tax bill similar to that introduced in the current session by Rep. James W. Patterson, (D), Allegheny, was killed in the senate during the 1935 regular session. Today's action was contained in a resolution offered by Sen. John J. McClure, (R), Delaware, to set aside the senate chamber for the public hearing on the bill.

Rabbi, Dr. Foster To Speak Thursday

Cause And Cure Of War Council To Hear Them At Y. W. C. A. Hall

Rabbi Norman H. Diamond and Dr. Arthur B. Foster will discuss the subject "National Defense" before a regular meeting of the Lawrence County Council on the Cause and Cure of War in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium on Thursday, May 28, at 8 p. m.

The talks, the fourth in a series on "Peace Planks in Party Platforms", will be discussed from these viewpoints:

(1) Army, navy and air force strong enough to support the national policies and commerce of the United States and to protect our national interests.

(2) A reduction in the expenditure for military and naval forces which are unnecessary unless we wish to wage war beyond our borders. We therefore advocate an army, navy and air force strong enough to defend American territory.

(3) An army, navy and air force strong enough to defend American territory and to uphold international obligations.

Dr. Charles B. Wingerd, who has been acting as discussion chairman, will preside.

NO "REDS" IN EL SALVADOR

(International News Service)

New Policemen To Start Training At Hershey, July 1

Policemen named recently to the city department will leave for state police training school at Hershey, Pa., July 1, it was stated today by Mayor Charles E. McGrath. Four new members were added to the force recently. The city will pay them at the rate of $50.00 a month while they are in school. This will be expended by the men for their maintenance and laundry. When they pass they will then assume patrols here.

Policemen Draw Vacation Periods

Drawing was conducted by city policemen for vacation periods yesterday and the vacation period will start June 1, it was announced today.

As a result it will be necessary to add some police temporarily to the police department.

These temporary appointments will be from men who have been certified by the civil service board as eligible for police jobs, according to Mayor Charles E. McGrath.

Downtown Landmark Will Soon Be Gone

There'll be few remaining signs of the old Clark home on the public square within a very short time.

A wrecking crew, battering down the frail structure which formed one of the downtown landmarks for years, was concentrating attack on the ground floor today.

The site is to be entirely cleared and a lawn developed where the house stood.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

HAPPINESS

How to be happy, do you ask?
First, find a tedious, doubtful task
Of which the scoffers say to you:
"It's much too difficult to do."
Let failure stare you in the face,
Hinder your way and slow your pace,
Grow weary, but with courage stout,
Keep on until you've worked it out.
Then for a time with that success
You'll know what men call happiness.

That happiness you want to share
Is born of heartache and despair;
Patience when disappointments sting;
The wisdom early failures bring.
'Tis but the passing resting spell
Twixt heavy burdens carried well;
'Tis standing fast when weaklings run
Until the victory is won;
'Tis moving forward, bit by bit,
And meeting care and mastering it.

How to be happy? Ask the old
And hear the sorrows they unfold.
Learn through the years how oft they've wept.
And still their faith in God have kept.
Their gentle pride so bravely worn
Proclaims the burdens they have borne;
For that contentment morals prize
'Twixt storm and strife forever lies,
And happiness the truth to tell
Is man's reward for tasks done well.

Riding ease for old or young—man, woman, or child—is the studied purpose of the new Packard One Twenty design. Knowing full well that comfort is both mental and physical, Packard has added to its exterior lines of graceful artistry and interior appointments of sound good taste, many other factors for solid comfort. Probably the greatest comfort pleasure is the sensational ride of the car itself, due principally to its SafeTfleX wheel suspension—a ride, surprising to believe, still further improved by a softer coil sping in the system and a redesign of rear spring equipment.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Alabama Law Maker In Fight

Opposition To New Deal Policies Stirs Up Opposition For Huddleston

LOOKED UPON AS A LIBERAL

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Anti-New Deal Democratic lawmakers are considerbly perturbed by the difficulties Representative George Huddleston is experiencing in his campaign for renomination in the Birmingham congressional district of Alabama.

Representative Huddleston is in his eleventh term on Capitol Hill.

Once nominated on the Democratic ticket, in that section, a candidate ordinarily is as good as elected, but occasionally there is competition for the nomination, Representative Huddleston never has had much, however; eleven times in succession he has won with scarcely a contest.

Now he has a fight on his hands.

A CONSPICUOUS EXAMPLE

His, too, is a conspicuous example.

Not only is he a veteran congressman, from a district where it was assumed that he was virtually unassailable; he is one of the ablest men in the national legislature. The "little giant from Alabama" was the fashion in which his associates referred to him.

And, until the New Deal's advent, he always was considered an advanced liberal. Organized labor swore by him—and Birmingham is a workingman's town.

OPPOSED F. D. R. MEASURES

A genuine liberal is what he really is, but he is an exceptionally capable economist, too, and many New Deal policies struck him as uneconomic; as false liberality, in fact.

He opposed them in debate and voted against them. He fought bitterly such measures as the anti-holding company bill.

What he said, for he is a vitriolic speaker, counted more than his lone ballot.

He is a terrific states' rightser. For instance, although his district is dry he voted against the 18th amendment. Not that he isn't a dry himself. He is, but only a statewide dry. Considering the section he comes from it was going some to vote against that amendment. The Rooseveltian tendency toward centralization worries him. And devaluation of the dollar added to his distress.

He has been especially irritating to the New Dealers because of his previous liberal record—not that he isn't a true liberal still, but he is anti-New Deal.

A LOSING FIGHT

Being the outstanding Democratic anti-New Dealer in the house of representatives, the New Dealers naturally were most desirous to "get" him in the recent Alabama primaries.

They succeeded to a certain extent.

They did not beat him outright. He had a plurality of the primary votes, but not a majority-over-all, which is necessary to nominate.

Consequently there must be a run-off early in June between Huddleston and his leading opponent, who is Luther Patrick, a Birmingham New Dealer. There were several other New Deal candidates, eliminated because their votes were too small to signify.

But if the New Dealers unite on Patrick, they will win, about 3 to 1.

CAUSES FEAR

Miscellaneous anti-New Dealers are upset by the reflection:

If so solid a candidate as Representative Huddleston is defeated, by reason of his anti-New Deal attitude, what chance will they stand?

They do not care so much for Huddleston's prospects.

It is with their own thermometer that they gauge his outlook.

Canal Decision Delayed To Fall

Recommendation On Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal Not Likely Soon

NEW INVESTIGATION IS NOW UNDER WAY

By TONY SMITH
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Final recommendations of United States Army engineers here concerning the proposed Lake Erie-Ohio river canal will not be made until fall at the very earliest, Colonel W. E. R. Covell, district engineer for western Pennsylvania, said today.

Explaining the renewed investigation had just gotten under way and there was as yet nothing definite to report on the findings of his staff, Col. Covell said that because of the extensive and exhaustive nature of the survey, the entire summr would undoubtedly be required to obtain the additional data on the proposed project requested by the office of the chief army engineers in Washington, D. C.

"As to whether the report will be favorable or not, I cannot say until we have gone further with the investigation," he explained.

"However, it really has little bearing on the matter for in the end our recommendation will probably have little to do with the actual decision of approval or rejection."

"All we can do is furnish the office of the chief engineer with additional data, which they asked for, and inclose a recommendation. When we send it in it is given to the board of rivers and harbors which in turn studies the findings and makes a report. It may be concurrent with ours or it may not. Final action, then, is taken by the chief engineer himself. He may do exactly as he sees fit regardless of our report or the findings of the board."

Joy And Despair Hand In Hand As Result Of Derby

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Mahmoud's victory in the derby at Epsom Downs brought joy to one Pittsburgher and despair to another today.

It brought joy to John Caputo who sold his ticket on "Pay Up," the favorite, to an English syndicate for $20,000, thus giving up his chance for a possible $150,000 first prize. But "Pay Up" ran a poor fourth.

Despair came to Joseph Kennedy, who has pounded a police beat for 22 years. Instead of a possible $150,000, Kennedy will receive a little bit more than $2,000. His horse, Abjur, was out of the money.

Hunt For Clues In Torch Death

Take Up Hunt For Man Seen With Slain Woman In Vermont Town

SEVERAL PERSONS ARE QUESTIONED

(International News Service)

KEENE, N. H., May 27.—Search for clues in the mountaintop torch mystery death of Mrs. Robert E. Freel, 50, swung to her home town, Clinton, Mass., today.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Tucker was in Clinton to question six persons familiar with the habits of Mrs. Freel in an effort to learn the reason for her eccentric habit of journeying from her home to unannounced points throughout New England.

Hunt For Man.

Search for the dignified man seen with Mrs. Freel in White River Junction, Vt., two days before her flaming body started a forest fire on Mount Wastastiquet, also centered in Clinton.

Discounting the possibility that Mrs. Freel was a suicide, Dr. Arthur F. Weston, state pathologist, pointed to the fact the charred remnants of her suitcase were found lying between the legs of the body.

"If she was conscious and set herself on fire, her intense agony would have caused her to toss the suitcase from her burning legs," Dr. Weston said.

Robert Freel, her husband, said he never questioned her about the trips, believing she was ill and that they made her happy.

Would Cite Dr. Townsend For Contempt

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Defied by Dr. Francis E. Townsend and his aides, the house committee investigating the Townsend and other old-age pension schemes struck back at the California doctor today by recommending that he and two of his principal leaders be cited for contempt and tried before a district of Columbia jury.

The committee had deliberated a week after Dr. Townsend's dramatic exit from a hearing where he was appearing as a witness, with the announcement that he would give no further testimony because he was being persecuted. From his refuge in Baltimore, where he went immediately after eluding police at the capitol, he issued orders for his associates to ignore committee subpoenas.

Dr. Clinton Wunder of New York, eastern regional manager for the Townsend movement and John B. Kiefer of Chicago, manager for that area, were recommended for contempt citations by the committee today.

Laura Ingals Is Given $2 Fine

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Laura Ingalls, aviatrix, today was fined $2 for passing a traffic signal in Queens.

"You know, judge," the flier told Magistrate Frank Giorgio in Flushing court, "I just can't help slipping by a light once in a while."

"Did you slip by this one," Giorgio demanded sternly.

"Yes."

"Two dollars. If you don't want to observe lights, stay up in the air," ruled the court.

Seek To Prevent Payment Of Fee In Crawford Case

Taxpayers Object To Payment Of Fee Of $36,000 To Three Attorneys

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 27.—Taking of testimony in a taxpayers' suit to prevent payment of a $36,000 fee to special attorneys for collecting a $180,000 personal property tax from the estate of the late George W. Crawford was expected to be completed late today before Visiting Judge Henry C. Niles of York county.

Attorneys Samuel Wilson of Clarion and Sebastian Pugliese and John E. Evans, Sr., of Pittsburgh, are seeking the fee which is objected to to by a group of taxpayers. Pugliese and Evans have testified they are law associates of Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, but that he was not associated with them in this case.

It was this conduct which formed the basis of a libel suit brought by Margiotti against the Philadelphia Enquirer, which charged the attorney general and his law partners were "out to get a big tax fee grab". The newspaper was acquitted by a Washington county jury, but was ordered to pay the costs.

Co-defendants with the attorneys are the three former county commissioners, Joseph A. McElhaney, John E. Ritchey and John N. Mark. The contract with the attorneys, it was testified, provided for a 15 to 30 per cent fee on a sliding scale. The attorneys claim a 20 per cent fee.

Summon Thirty For W.P.A. Probe

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Subpoenas were served by three sergeants-at-arms of the state senate today on 30 persons here for the first hearing in the senatorial WPA investigation, opening Friday in this city.

Arriving here to lay the groundwork for hearing throughout the state, State Sen. G. Mason Owlett, chairman of the investigating committee, announced that "if there is any evidence of criminal conspiracy on the part of Democratic leaders and WPA officials, I shall ask immediate prosecution by the district attorney of Philadelphia."

Contradicting the statement of Edward N. Jones, state WPA administrator, that the senate lacks power to demand records of a federal agency, Owlett said there are enough state angles in the relief setup to warrant the probe.

Another Townsend Official Refuses To Give Testimony

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Another member of the Townsend forces today added his defiance of the Congressional Committee investigating old age pensions schemes to that of his leader, Dr. Francis E. Townsend.

Challenging the "unholy record of this investigation," Sheridan Downey, personal attorney of the 70 year-old pensionite, refused to go before the committee in answer to a subpoena served on him yesterday.

Margiotti Acts Against Monopoly In State Bids

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Charging a prevalence of bidding collusion with a resultant cost of millions of dollars to Pennsylvania, Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti today had notified Arthur Colegrove, secretary of property and supplies, that he will be permitted to award a contract to any one low responsible bidder in case of a tie bid.

Following a similar request of Colegrove last December, Margiotti said:

"The practice of submitting equal bids, now engaged in by various bidders, is of the most pernicious nature. By such collusion, such bidders are assured that one of them will be awarded the contract, and, consequently, they are enabled to create a virtual monopoly within their own group."

Texas Delegates May Favor Landon

State Republican Convention In Lone Star State Fails To Instruct

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 27.—Although the Texas state Republican convention failed to instruct the state delegation of 25 to the national party convention in Cleveland, friends of Gov. Alf Landon today said the delegation was friendly to him and they believed he could count on it when it comes to voting.

Mention of any candidate by name was carefully avoided on the floor of the convention.

R. B. Creager of Brownsville was elected chairman of the Texas delegation.

The convention, which closed last night, was unusually placid and lacking in controversy. The only thing which bothered the Republicans was the Democratic administration, and words were not minced in denouncing it.

Crime Prevention Absolute Necessity

Most Criminals Show Anti-Social Tendencies In Early Childhood

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27. Professional manhunters as well as students of crime are becoming convinced that increased attention must be given to crime prevention as well as the arrest, trial and conviction of criminals, Dr. Sheldon Glueck, professor of criminology at Harvard Law School, told the national conference for Social Work today.

Declaring that most criminals show definite anti-social tendencies in childhood, Professor Sheldon said that most such children should be kept from contact with police stations, courts and correctional institutions until more scientific and sympathetic efforts have failed, and that a crime prevention program should recognize that children "must have ample outlets for their energies."

He added:

"In intensive work with problem children and delinquents, the attitudes and prejudices of parent should not be ignored."

KILLS BLACKSNAKE CRAWLING ON STREET

A five-foot snake in the business district!

Driving down Croton avenue towards the business section, at a point near the North street bridge, Charles W. McClelland, 1418 Croton avenue, yesterday spied a curled blacksnake along the curb and piloted his car wheels over it. The snake squirmed and started crawling away. McClelland then killed it. It measured five feet.

Washington Pupils Please Audience With 'Pinafore'

The last of the George Washington junior high school entertainments for the term, "Pinafore", a comical operetta, was splendidly presented by a talented cast of Washington pupils before a large audience in the Washington auditorium last night.

With the cleverly staged production over, the school's dramatic season came to a close.

Performing was a corps of well rehearsed young actors and actresses, who were trained under the guidance of a group of faculty coaches Miss Iva Mayberry was the general director, assisted in a notable way by other teachers.

Aboard the good ship "Pinafore", majestic boat of His Majesty, the King of England, "anchored off Portsmouth", the characters, playing their parts well, went through their roles. The stage was the ship's quarter deck and the background gave the atmosphere of an outstretched sea.

All the youngsters did their acting well, especially young Maurice Allsopp, in the role of Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., the first lord of the admiralty. Tiny compared to the other principals, Allsopp's comical acting brought down a steady procession of laughs. The other principals and the large chorus gave him fine support.

Between the first and second acts of the show there was a specialty dance by Jean Bartsch, and another dancing act, entitled "Football Hero", by Evelyn Stratton, Betty Marie Cadman, Winifred Wilson, Lois Walton and Peggy Landis.

The audience, well satisfied with the performers, responded with applause time and time again

Characters in the production were:

Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., First Lord of the Admiralty—Maurice Allsopp.

Captain Corcoran, commanding H. M. S. Pinafore—Anthony Venturella.

Ralph Rackstraw, able seaman—Everett Hoffman.

Dick Deadeye, able seaman, Harold Miles.

Boatswain—Alfred Mellor.

Josephine, the captain's daughter—Susanna Flick.

Hebe, Sir Joseph's first cousin—Helen McCommon.

Little Buttercup, a Portsmouth boat-woman—Jean Miller.

Faculty managers, in addition to Miss Mayberry, were:

Dramatic coach, Miss Elizabeth Glover.

Scenery and programs, Miss Helena Burckart.

Stage manager, James R. Green.

Ushers, Arthur Walker.

Tickets, Miss Verna Wilfert.

Dances, Miss Helen Maloney.

A matinee of the show was given earlier.

According to Time, Congress showed no sectional favoritism. It damned Florida's ditch and ditched Maine's dam.

Says Every Woman Needs 3 Husbands

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Every woman needs "three husbands," Dr. E. J. G. Beardsley, clinical professor of medicine at Jefferson Medical College, told members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Philadelphia County Medical Society here.

"Every woman needs three husbands, one to earn a living for her, one for social purposes and one to play the role of screen lover," he asserted in a facetious side remark during a lecture. He hastened to add that he wouldn't suggest three wives for every husband because:

"A man has enough trouble looking after one wife."

INVOKE OLD RITES AT GYPSY FUNERAL

(International News Service)

WICHITA, Kan.—Rites harking back to the days of ancient Egypt and preserved through the ages by the wandering tribes of Romany, were invoked in laying to rest a modern Gypsy princess, Dora Adams 24-year-old daughter of Dewey Mark, one time Wichita Gypsy chieftain and member of the ruling family of American Gypsies.

Between the fingers of each hand were placed coins so that she might pay her way through the darkness, and toilet articles were placed at her side so that she might care for her beauty in the land beyond.

The body was accompanied to the cemetery by a 12-piece band playing the haunting air of Chopin's Funeral March. Wine was poured over the coffin as it sank into the earth.

Knights Templar To End Session At Harrisburg

Election And Installation Of Officers Will Be Closing Act Of Conclave

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Election and installation of officers, the latter in colorful public ceremonies, today was to conclude the 83rd annual conclave of the Knights Templar of Pennsylvania, in four-day session here.

In addition to the election of grand officers, appointment of officers and division commanders also will be made at the Morning Business session. A luncheon for the grand commander and his staff, sponsored by the conclave committee, will precede the installation exercises.

A majority of the 5,000 Knights who paraded on review here yesterday in the procession of some 60 commanderies had returned to their homes today.

Woman Pesters Rep. Zioncheck

Threatens To Expose "Playboy" Congressman As Bigamist

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Congressman Marion Zioncheck called out the gendarmes today to search for a mysterious woman suffering from telephonitis.

"This woman," said the congressman, "has been calling up and threatening me with jail. She says I better watch out or she will have me arrested for bigamy.

"Heck, I've only been married once—to my wife here."

His bride interpolated quickly:

"I believe you. Who wouldn't?"

Police traced one call to a swanky hotel and set out to investigate.

"That's what a man gets, being famous," said the gentleman from Washington, who ran a couple of expletives and a fast car into a famous career before you could say Zioncheck.

Wanted To Dine At Dry Restaurant

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—One of the delegates to the recent meeting in Allentown of the Philadelphia Annual Methodist Episcopal Conference, which is noted for its militant "dry stand," stepped up to a traffic officer and asked:

"Could you tell me, please, where I can get meals in a restaurant that doesn't serve alcoholic liquors?"

Assured by a searching gaze that the questioner wasn't being facetious with the law, the policeman pondered the matter, scratched his head and finally remarked:

"What's the matter young man? Is your resistance wearing down?"

CASE OF WOMAN WHO NEVER FORGETS

(International News Service)

TAMPA, Fla.—The tortoise who mythically raced the hare would be arrested today for speeding, compared to the speed shown by a woman who ten years ago had her husband arrested here.

Since that time she has moved away.

But the incident has not been forgotten.

The police this week received a letter from her. She merely wanted to learn the disposition of the case.

Now the coppers are faithfully searching the 1926 records.

They want to forward her the desired information.

Yes, Women Have Brains, Just As Men, Prof. Says

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — This yarn should rate orchids from the ladies for Dr. W. E. Atkinson of Southwestern University here.

The professor says:

"Women have brains, just as men."

The statement came as a counter-belief of many that women's actions are caused by intuition or any other special sense.

"There is no difference between the sexes in this respect," Dr. Atkinson said, and regarding other beliefs:

"Genius and insanity are not akin to each other.

"Mental and physical superiority go together rather than opposite.

"Thoughts do not determine our actions, but our actions determine what we think, especially during the first half of our life, or up to 20 or 30 years of age."

Old theories and superstitions concerning physiognomy, palmistry, phrenology, graphology, astrology, and numerology were attacked by the Northwestern educator.

He added to the five senses usually mentioned those of muscle, static, cold, warmth, pain and organic bringing the total number, in his opinion, up to 11.

QUINTUPLETS' SECOND BIRTHDAY THURSDAY

Birthday Cake Will Be Feature

None Of Cake Will Be Eaten By Dionne Girls, However, Says Doctor

NOTABLES WILL BE DAY'S GUESTS

By GRACE TROY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 27.—Bursting from the buds of babyhood into roses of enchanting girlhood, the Dionne quintuplets today were preparing to celebrate their second birthday on Thursday.

I saw the quints the day they were born. Like featherless, newborn robins they were then.

I saw them today. Five, healthy, robust little girls.

And even on the gala occasion of their second birthday, the same care and routine that has brought them from buds to bloom, will be exercised by Dr. Alan Roy DaFoe, backwoods physician who has gained world acclaim by his success in rearing his five little charges.

Extraordinary Health Record

Dr. DaFoe said today the precious tots must be guarded carefully. They have had an extraordinary health record in their second year, not even a cold marring the health slate, and Dr. DaFoe intends to do his utmost to maintain that record.

And so—

It will not be the ordinary little girl's party, with ice cream, cake and lollypops, and little friends arriving with fascinating, mysterious packages wrapped in tissue paper and ribbons.

It will be the same schedule and the same diet as usual.

It will be far from a dull day, nevertheless. There will be the excitement about the hospital that these bright-eyed alert tots will not miss.

Birthday Cake

There will be new toys, of course. And there will be a birthday cake, with candles. But Dr. DaFoe is firm in declaring that the little 'tummies will not be upset by any of the cake finding its way to the rosebud mouths. There will be pretty frocks, however, to make up for the lost cake.

Guests at the party will include Premier Hepburn, the Hon. David Croll, guardian for the state, and Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the guidance board.

Best of all, the quints are going to speak to their friends throughout the world in a radio broadcast Thursday evening. Their vocabulary consists only of a few words in their native tongue, "mama, papa, Degardez Le Docteur," but, said Judge Valin with a twinkle in his eye, "the people like to hear them."

The quints romped around as usual today. In a sand pile at the rear of their hospital-home, Cecile scooped the sand into a pile while Yvonne gurgled as Annette's wee feet disappeared beneath the mound of sand. The other two little girls were mostly interested in a sand castle being built by Nurse Leroux.

Pupils' Essays Stress Import Of Safe Driving

In an essay writing contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with school authorities as part of the junior chamber's current "safe driving" campaign, Mary Russo, Mahoning school pupil; John Thompson, George Washington junior high student, and Lenora Potter, Senior high student, submitted prize-winning contributions.

At a junior chamber banquet this week they received cash awards.

The three essays, written on the subject assigned to the author's particular group, follow:

BEST GRADE SCHOOL ESSAY

1. Best grade school paper, written by Mary Russo, on "How Should I Teach My Younger Brother or Sister Traffic Safety?"

I can teach my younger brother or sister traffic safety by showing them what to do before crossing the street and what the lights and signals mean to them. I will tell them never to run in front of a car or sit on the running board of a parked car. I would teach them to play on safe grounds and not in streets. If they should ever play anyplace where there is traffic, I would warn them not to do it again. I will not only teach my younger brother or sister, but other children if necessary.

BEST JUNIOR HIGH PAPER

2. Best junior high paper written by John Thompson on "How Can I Prepare Myself to be a Safe Driver?"

I, as an individual, can do my part in the campaign for safe drivers by taking care of my physical health. One must have steady nerves and keen reflexes to meet the emergencies that will occur in everyday driving. When I am learning to drive an automobile, I can help my own skill by observing the tactics of experienced and careful drivers. I will learn the traffic laws of the state and city of which I am a part and shall do my best to obey them. I will never do myself and the public the injustice of driving under intoxicating liquors. I can resign myself to the fact that if I want to be careful, I must not speed at a rate that an accident would be inevitable when my decision, made in an instant, was wrong.

BEST SENIOR HIGH PAPER

3. Best senior high paper, written by Lenora Potter on "How Can We Prevent Young Drivers from Being Reckless Drivers?"

As we all know, the ideas and habits we form in childhood usually remain with us throughout life. Thus, if we want to prevent young drivers from being reckless, training in safety must be taught at an early age.

In our public schools, safety should be considered as a subject itself. Emphasis should be placed on the safety of both pedestrians and drivers.

Not only should the schools teach safety in driving, but also the parents of young drivers. They should question and answer the problems confronting the young drivers mind.

Older drivers should set examples for younger ones. Of course, the older driver understands situations better, because he has had experience.

A help to young drivers are the bulletins published and distributed in the school. Statistics give them an idea of the great need of safe driving.

Another aid to young drivers are the pictures sometimes published in magazines and newspapers. The way to get at the mind is through the eye. What we see stays with us longer than what we hear.

The proper training in safety is the only way to prevent young drivers from being reckless drivers.

BUTTERMILK PAINT LOST HIM HIS FEE

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Mrs. J. F. Trainor won a lawsuit here when she told the court that "I expect a painter to use paint—not buttermilk."

Mrs. Trainor was called into court to explain why she hadn't paid a $5 bill she assertedly owed William Kretz, a painter.

"He agreed to put a dull finish in the breakfast nook," Mrs. Trainor explained. "When it was finished is was glossy. I complained and he said he would paint it with buttermilk—that would make it look dull."

The court agreed with Mrs. Trainor and the painter's suit was dismissed.

My New York
By James Aswell

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Lou was a very remarkable woman. She was cracked. She was as balmy as a bird. But she had character. I suppose, too, there have been others cut to her eccentric pattern in the maelstrom of Manhattan's forgotten stratum. And so I give you a flash of her.

Lou's origins are obscured. She turned up the other night in the notes of a young police reporter I know when she was taken to Bellevue, charged with drunkenness. She wasn't drunk, it turned out, only a little loony. She had been peering into trash cans and weaving down the street so crazily that a cop hailed her.

They found $3,000 credited to her account in four different banks. The bank books were tied around her waist. There seems to be an epidemic in Manhattan now of these plutocratic paupers. Another old lady had been taken in just a few days previously with bank books showing ownership of $10,000 and so Lou was news for my police reporter friend. I asked him to describe her to me; perhaps she was typical of a metropolitan type.

"Oh, she was dressed in rags," he said. "They always are. She had on five petticoats. The nurse told me that. No home. A wild eye. Delusions of persecution. She was pretty far gone."

I wanted to know where he thought she came from—how she cafe upon such strange and depressing ways.

"Oh, she's a native-born New Yorker. You can depend on that. All the daffy ones are. Probably the city ran her cuckoo, just as it'll run you and me some of these days. Come to think, Jim, you have a rather strange look in your eye right now—"

"But what about Lou? Did they cure her?"

"Cure her? Don't be silly. She'll be back on the street in a month, if they let her out of the hospital, peering into trash cans and nursing her bank books. But there was one rather funny, and sort of pathetic thing she said. When they took her bank books away from her she cried, 'Take my money if you want it, but give me my books back. I don't care about the money but I've been nursing those books for 15 years.'"

So Lou had a sort of character. Fifteen years of dedication to a single purpose. Nursing those bank deposit books. Long ago she lost all association of the books with money. The money was secondary. The books were what counted. They were a symbol.

Lou, following her obsession, was a weird, despised, half-crazy old woman. If her symbol had been a little different—if, for example, her preoccupation had been with some wild scheme for saving the world in 24 hour or 24 years—she might have been revered, called a genius. She might have had magazine articles and books written about her. She might be, now, in high office.

The line is thin and the more you meditate upon it the more confused you become.

Short short story: Mr. and Mrs. Wiggus had been married five years in 1929. They had a quarrel. Mr. Wiggus got so mad that he walked out of the house bag and baggage and didn't go back.

Instead he got one of those Mexican mail-order divorces. A few months ago he met his former wife, whom he hadn't communicated with in six years. They found, with the mellower perspective of the middle years, that they had much in common. They dined, went to a show together.

Mr. Wiggus discovered, by tactful questioning, that Mrs. Wiggus had never heard of the Mexican divorce. Thought she was still married to him. He induced her to be married again, "just for the fun of it". They're very happy. But he's scared to death.

Right after their second marriage she murmured: "You see, here we are, all happy again. Some hotheads would have run off and got a divorce. We never did and so it worked out for the best. But there's one thing I could never have endured and that's being a divorcee."

It may be a mere coincidence, but the ads in a sexy magazine seem designed especially to catch morons.

Great Animal Show With Friday's Circus

The world's greatest animal show will come to New Castle on Friday, May 29, when animal lovers may look over some 812 beasts included in the personnel of the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus.

There is a rule applying to the animal lovers, one which will not be violated often:

"You can look, but mustn't touch."

Clyde Beatty, a 150-pound marvel of nerve and muscle, is allowed both to look and touch. With a whip, the snap of which is worse than its bite, a chair and a revolver loaded with blanks, he enters a circular cage to make a zooful of lions and tigers say "uncle". Lions and tigers are no fonder of one another than they are of humankind. But such is the Beatty mastery that they eventually take their places on stools, rubbing tawny shoulders with each other.

A tiger reluctantly lies down and rolls over in the tanbark of the cage; and Menelik, a fiercely maned lion, without much persuasion, mounts a stool to sit up on his haunches. Menelik assumes a pose rather unregal for the king of beasts and he seems well aware of it.

Clyde is not the only Beatty in the family to demonstrate superiority over the beasts. His pretty blonde wife, Harriet, appearing early in the show, puts a Siamese elephant through its paces—and with a Nubian lion and a Royal Bengal tiger ridin' on its back! This is Mrs. Beatty's professional debut, and a successful one.

We have never seen a circus yet that did't give us a violent pain in the neck, physically. So many of the acts are 'way up in the air, among them being the Great Gretonas, sensational high wire performers, the Flying Harolds, the Imperial Illingtons, Esma Wilson, Jean Evans, Martha Large and others. A lithe, limber lady, by name Mlle. O'Dell, does not do the aforesaid neck any good, either. Slipping her hand through a loop of rope, also atop a pole, she throws her body over her own shoulder 50 times in a row.

There is a lad from Florida, Harold Barnes, 16 years old, who is more at ease on a tight wire than you are on a sidewalk. The kid not only walks; he skips, runs, dances, turns somersaults and is said to be without an equal on the silver strand.

The Cole Bros-Clyde Beatty show is rich in thrills, comedy, in curious and lively fauna. Two performances will be staged here, with a street parade at 11 a. m.

Former Senator Reed Favors Brief Platform For Republican Party

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, May 27—The 1936 Republican campaign platform, unlike its 1932 predecessor, will be a document "brief, crisp and to the point," if his suggestions are followed, former U. S. Senator David A. Reed, Republican national committeeman, declared today in an interview.

About 7,000 Words Too Long.

"The last platform was about 7,500 words long and that was about 7,000 words too long," said Reed, indicating he will seek to have the 1936 document follow the form of the last Democratic campaign platform, which was of almost unprecedented brevity.

Reed, who has already devoted considerable study to the 1936 platform, will arrive in Cleveland, the convention city, next Tuesday, a week ahead of the national conclave, for the meeting of the national platform committee. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Reed. Mrs. Marion Margery Scranton of Scranton, Pennsylvania's committeewoman, also will be in Cleveland at that time.

Pennsylvania's ex-senator was reluctant to discuss the question of just how liberal a document the 1936 platform will be.

"If you mean by 'liberal' the reckless spending and giving away of other people's money, I hope our platform will not be liberal in that sense."

More Liberal Attitude.

Reed added, however, he was much in sympathy with the recent declaration of Attorney James H. Duff of Pittsburgh, a national convention delegate, that the 1936 platform must take a more liberal attitude toward social and economic questions.

The recent U. S. supreme court decision invalidating the Guffey coal control law "was just what every lawyer knew would happen," Reed said. He declared himself against attempting to evolve a substitute measure more in accordance with the supreme court edict and urged instead voluntary action among coal producers to cure the industry's ills.

"I think coal deserves separate treatment," Reed said, explaining he believed much of the current distress resulted from a huge expanse in production to meet needs during the world war and consequent overproduction in later years.

Do Something About Coal.

"For the sake of the people who work in the industry and the people who have their money invested in it we should do something about coal and I think the way was opened by the court's approval of the recently formed Appalachian Regional Sales associations," the ex-senator said. "I think the producers can get together on a voluntary basis."

Reed again expressed the hope Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts of Pennsylvania would not be "drafted" as a presidential or vice-presidential candidate.

"I do not think we should ever take a man from the bench just for the sake of giving him the nomination, and much as I admire and respect Justice Roberts I would myself lead a movement to dissuade the convention from such action."

Reed said on the first ballot about 20 of the Pennsylvania delegation's 75 votes would be cast for Senator William E. Borah of Idaho by delegates "intentionally or inadvertently pledged to him."

"As for the others—well, the Pennsylvania delegation is unpledged and uninstructed and unbossed," he added with emphasis.

City Taxes Payable At Face To July 1

City taxes for 1936 can be paid at face up to July 1, according to Treasurer C. C. McKibben. There is a one percent discount on school taxes up to August when they can be paid at face up to October. Taxes are being paid at a fairly good pace, McKibben stated.

On Court House Hill

George E. Wagner and Richard R. Lewis have been granted commissions as Notaries, the commissions being entered yesterday at the register and recorder's office.

Some of the county assessors report that they have trouble in getting data on some of the properties which they are assessing in districts where there are foreigners. The owners seem to think that the assessors set the taxes. All that the assessors do is to set valuations. The county commissioners set the county tax millage.

County commissioners are making some repairs on the bridge at Covert's crossing and the Hillsville bridge. The floors in both bridges are in need of new plank. They have found the remainder of the county bridges in pretty good shape.

Paper hangers are rushing work on court room No. 1 in order to get it in shape for the coming term of June court. The work is now about half completed. Commissioners expect to order new blinds for the windows, the old ones being in bad shape. When the court house was built long windows were the style, so that special blinds ten feet long and over forty inches wide will have to be ordered.

Attorney Harry Frank of this city, who is now employed at Harrisburg as assistant counsel to the Public Service commission, was in the city today on his way to Erie. Frank represents the public service commission in the trial of cases in various counties of the state. He has a case in Erie which will come up this week.

Will of the late Katherine Martinko of Pulaski township, has been admitted to probate at the register and recorder's office. To each of her children, John Martinko Jr. Martin, Katherine, Mary, Anna and Agnes, she left $500. The bequest to Martin Martinko is not to be paid until he is married, with the understanding that it is to be used in furnishing a home. If he is not married in five years the bequest is to lapse and be divided among the other children and to Martin equally, if the executor sees fit. The balance of the estate is left to decedent's husband, John Martinko Sr. A brother of decedent, Martin Dolak, is named as executor.

The uncertainties of life are pretty well illustrated in a controversy over the estate of Eleanor J. McMillin in which a citation for the filing of an account is to be argued at the coming term of court. Not only is one party to a contract dead, but two of three executors have died.

Eleanor J. McMillin, aged 11, is the daughter of Mrs. Jean Morrow, by a former marriage with James J. McMillin. On March 15th, 1927 Mrs. Maria J. Book, maternal aunt of James J. McMillin, made an agreement with him and Jean McMillin, now Mrs. Jean Morrow, by which Mrs. Book agreed for herself and heirs to maintain and provide a home for Eleanor McMillin until she became of legal age.

Soon after Mrs. Book died, and J. R. Justice, Ella Justice and W. C. Justice were named as her executors. J. R. Justice and Ella Justive have since died, leaving only one executor, W. C. Justice.

Attorney William McElwee Jr., was appointed guardian for Eleanor McMillin. In June 1928 the court overruled certain exceptions to a report of Attorney H. A. Wilkinson, auditor appointed to make distribution in the estate of Maria J. Book, and confirmed a supplemental report wherein the said auditor set aside for William McElwee Jr., guardian of Eleanor J. McMillin, $17,000, for the purpose of carrying out the terms of the agreement made between Mrs. Book and the parents of Eleanor. This finding was affirmed by the supreme court. However the money was not turned over to the guardian, and no bond was given conditioned for its payment.

Subsequently the court directed that ten dollars per week be turned over to Jean Morrow for the care of her daughter. The amount paid with certain fees amounted to $3,989. Prior to April, 1936, it is claimed that Jean Morrow believed that the $17,000 had been invested for the benefit of her daughter. It is claimed this had not been done.

Following the death of Ella V. Justice, one of the executors in 1933, Attorney Wylie McCaslin became executor of her estate. J. R. Justice, one of the two remaining executors of Mrs. Book, died in April, 1936, leaving but the one executor, W. C. Justice. It is now asked that W. C. Justice set aside $17,000 of the Book estate and file an accounting. To accomplish this a citation has been issued on W. C. Justice and others connected with the estate to appear in court and show cause against the prayer of the petitioner. The surviving executor claims that the estate has consisted largely of real estate which could not be sold at a reasonable figure, and for that reason the $17,000 has not been segregated. Arguments for both sides, which will be made at the coming session of court, may clear up an otherwise complicated situation.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE PARENT PROBLEM 1 1 1 111

STUDENTS ASK QUESTIONS

ON THE AVERAGE, during the school year, I visit from one to two cities a week, and usually where this column is carried. A typical day for me is to speak before one or several junior or senior school assemblies in the morning, a luncheon club at noon, teacher or a parent study club in the afternoon, and a general parent-teacher meeting at night. Sometimes I am able to visit a few classrooms also—to keep familiar with schoolroom methods and practices.

Not the least among my pleasures and means of further education are the personal contacts I make with the school superintendent, principals, teachers, parents and individual students, and newspaper reporters. When this column is carried I generally meet the editor and members of his staff—all so cordial and so interesting. Nothing pleases me so much as to hear a newspaper man say he reads this column, or that his wife does. Occasionally one says, "My wife makes me read it."

From all these persons I learn a great deal, being a pretty good listener. I am beginning to believe that I learn most from school children, especially when the principal allows them to ask me questions following my brief talk, either from the floor of the assembly hall or more informally elsewhere.

Exciting School Visit

Some while ago I told you of my happy experience at answering questions at the school assembly of the Central High school of Madison, Wis. Recently I had a still more exciting (to me) experience at the school assembly of 750 youths of the John Dear Junior High school of Moline, Ill., where my column is widely read not only by parents and teachers, but by children also. After I had spoken for 25 minutes on "Your Fears and Mine", Principal A. W. Wood, who is president of the very live P.-T. A. council of that city, turned those 750 children loose on me. Believe it or not, they questioned me for one hour and twenty minutes, after which I gave up, weary. I have a copy of 45 of the questions asked by as many different pupils, all of which I answered briefly as well as I was able. Here are a few of them:

How can you tell a desirable companion?

Why does a boy like a dog better than a cat?

Why do little children stutter?

Is is better to grow up in a large family than a small one?

How can you overcome temper? Why are some people more jealous than others?

What makes some children think they are more than anyone else

If you were left-handed when you were little, and your parents tried to make you right-handed, would it affect you any?

Do you think it right for pupils to have home work?

What makes a persons bashful? Which is the smarter sex?

Why are many girls afraid of mice? Why do some teachers not like other teachers' subjects? What makes some people blush more than others?

What makes a person cry when he laughs hard? Do you think parents should let children drive their cars?

How late should children stay up? Why are there more women teachers than men?

During what hours should a person study?

What makes us afraid of the dark?

Why do we tease?

Tifereth Israel Observance Ends Thursday Morning

Feast Of Weeks Being Celebrated By Services In Synagogue

Last night and this morning, in observance of "The Feast of Weeks," special services were conducted at Tifereth Israel synagogue, South Jefferson street. The observance will be concluded by a third service at 8 o'clock Thursday morning.

Rabbi Pinchos Katz, leader of the congregation, in explaining the meaning of the Feast of Weeks, states that it is a holiday on which Jewish people may eat what they want to, not limiting their diet to unleavened bread and foods as is done on Passover; nor must they live in booths, as on Tabernacles.

"Moreover," the rabbi says, "Since it occurs during the beginning of the summer months when the weather is very pleasant and the fruits of various kinds are in abundance, we may enjoy nature in any form we please. This enjoyment is more keenly felt because it is preceded by a number of weeks of abstinence from everything festive.

"The Feast of Weeks does not last weeks, it continues only two days, but it comes at the end of the Seven Weeks of the counting of the Omer, which (not counting the Passover Week and the one Day Lag B'Omer) form a period of abstinence from everything joyful. This period was a preparation for the great event in commemoration of which Shevuoth is celebrated, namely, that of the giving of the Torah to Israel. It is true that Shevuoth is nowhere in the Bible referred to as the time of the giving of the Torah but it has been celebrated as such since times immemorial. Morover, from the account in Exodus XIX as regards the giving of the Torah, we learn that it took place at the time we celebrate Shevuoth, since the Israelites, as we are told, reached the Mount of Sinai on the First of Sivan, rested a day or two, and then spent three days for the great event."

Correct This Sentence: "I feed my cat all it needs," said she, "so it never molests young songbirds."

Foxx Stars As Red Sox Win

Upset Yanks And Move Nearer To League Lead, Foxx Hits 12th Homer

PITTSBURGH LOSES TWICE TO ST. LOUIS

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 27.—Jimmy Foxx' pell-mell dash toward his third major league home run championship is beginning to look like a one-man race, and, apparently, if the big Marylander manages to escape injury, he will turn in another near record performance this season.

Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tiger slugger who took the tittle last season, won't figure too prominently in the race; because of the broken arm which will keep him idle about six weeks.

Bill Dickey of the Yankees was temporarily halted yesterday by injuries and takes to the shelf with him his record of nine to date, to add to Foxx' chances, and leaving Hal Trosky, of Cleveland, also with nine, as the main contender of the moment, although he is not regarded as a real threat.

Has 12 Homers

Big James already has 12 and is getting better all the time, with Lou Gehrig, the Yankee iron man, who is always in the race, far behind.

Foxx came through yesterday when the Red Sox whipped the Yanks 5 to 4. His homer with one on in the eighth spelled the difference. Crosetti carried on with one for the Yanks, while Dickey was carted away to the hospital after a collision at the plate.

Cards Take Two

St. Louis improved its position as National League leader by taking two games from the Pittsburgh Pirates by identical scores, 6 to 2, Dizzy Dean winning his seventh victory in the opener. The second was played under Pittsburgh protest because of a reversed decision by the umpires on a drive down the foul line.

The double win, if the second stands up, increased the Cards' lead over the Giants by a half game, the latter winning from the Dodgers, 7 to 3.

The Phillies beat the Bees, 7 to 2, and the Cubs trimmed the Reds, 10 to 4.

Tigers-Sox Split

Detroit got an even break with the White Sox in a pair of games, notwithstanding the fact that the Tiger pitching was so wobbly the Sox scored nine runs in each game. The Tigers took the first, 12 to 9, and dropped the second, 9 to 2.

Paced by Sunny Jimmy Bottomly, who hit a homer, the Browns smacked down the Indians, 8 to 5, with the veteran Elon Hogsett hurling a seven-hit victory.

Four errors by the Athletics contributed to Washington's 8 to 2 victory.

Ryantown Trims Frisco Team 3-2

Ryantown Schedules Colonial A. C. For Two Games On Memorial Day

Ryantown baseball team with Tommie Strausbaugh on the rubber in a three-hitter, held the Frisco team to a 3-to-2 score last night at the Frisco field, the locals taking the verdict. Strausbaugh whiffed 11 of the Friscoans in the five innings that he worked.

The Ryantowns have yet to taste defeat this year. Decoration Day morning the Ryantowns will be at Colonial field at 10:30 o'clock for a game. The afternoon game Saturday will be at the Ryantown field at 2:30 o'clock, it was announced by Business Manager Heasley.

Having taken a good lacing at Hillsville yesterday, Alec Black and his Tin Mill team will return to Hillsville at 6 p. m. today for the purpose of trying to avenge the defeat. Last season Hillsville proved the stumbling block for all the good teams. They came through when they were picked for the taboggan and yesterday's walloping administered to the Tin Mill causes the fans to believe that they'll make plenty of trouble for all of the Lawrence County Baseball league teams this season.

Lewis-Massera Battle Tonight At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Appearing here for the first time since gaining the light heavyweight boxing championship, John Henry Lewis was to meet Charley Massera of Monongahela tonight in a 10-round non-title bout.

Even though of comparative unimportance from a class rating standpoint, a great amount of interest has been created in the bout through the possibility that Massera, who has met all the leading figures in the division, may score a surprise victory over the title-holder.

Sweeping their matches with the Hardware Merchants with four members of the team shooting under 40, Conn's took undisputed possession of first place in the New Castle golf league last evening, while Reynolds, Summer & McCann and Shenango Tin, who are pressing them for the lead, were able to garner but 4½ points from their opponents at Sylvan Heights course.

Boswell-Pay Up Are Favored In Big Derby Race

(International News Service)

EPSOM DOWNS, Eng., May 27.—Lord Astor's Pay Up ruled a 6-1 favorite to win the 153rd running of the Epsom derby classic today, but Boswell, English-bred horse owned by William Woodward of New York, was backed to win by $300,000.

Most of the backing for Boswell was put up by racing fans in the United States and by stable connections in England. The odds on Boswell are eight to one, making him fourth favorite.

Excitement in the race was at high pitch. With 22 horses scheduled to run in the race, early betting remained in line with last night's final call over, in which Aga Khan's Taj Akbar was second favorite at 100-14 and Sir Alfred Butt's Noble King was third at 15-2.

The course, considered exceptionally hard, was enveloped in mist. Early this morning the sky was overcast, and a drizzle was predicted for later in the day.

Gomez Takes Arm To Doctor, Will Get "Tuning Up"

"Goofy" Gomez Wants To Find Out What Is Wrong With His Salary Wing

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Lefty Vernon Gomez, star southpaw of the New York Yankees, was to go to a doctor in quest of rejuvenation for his ailing arm.

The American league's outstanding pitcher in 1934, when he won 26 games, has been unable to finish in four recent starts and did not go to Boston with the New York club for the series opening.

"I don't know what's wrong with my arm," Gomez said, "it is not dead and I don't think I've torn anything loose, but I can't do any good on the mound."

After his banner 1934 season, Gomez signed a two-year contract for 1935 and 1936, then immediately fell into a slump. He won only 12 games last year and lost 15. In only one or two games this year has he showed real effectiveness.

Klein Puts New Life In Phillies

Phils Take Over Boston Bees As Chuck Klein Gets Back In Lineup

By BILL WEART
International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—"I told you Chuck would bring us luck and the spark we needed to get going again in this pennant race," chuckled Jimmy Wilson, hard-working catcher-manager of the Phillies today.

And that's just the way the fans, the owners and every member of the cellar-entrenched Phils feel about the return of Chuck Klein, holder of premier slugging honors of the National League for six years before the Quakers traded him to the Chicago Cubs for $100,000 and three players.

Klein Happy

Returned to the Phils with an additional $50,000 for Pitcher Curt Davis, Klein celebrated with a perfect fielding average and .500 at bat by slamming out two hits and getting a walk on five trips to the plate.

"Satisfied I'm tickled," said the slugger. "There are plenty more hits in my bat and some of them will help the Phils win some of the close ones they've been dropping.

Contradicting reports he might have to stop playing to undergo treatment for a chronic leg condition, both Wilson and Klein claim the outfielder's underpinning is not bothering him in the least now.

Haynes Favored To Upset Primo

Colored Heavyweight Favored To Knock Big Italian Man-Mountain For Loop

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 27 —Leroy Haynes, the colored boy who has managed to become very agitated in the course of black-menacing the official black menace of pugilism, is to re-play his third-act death scene with the tragic oaf, Primo Carnera, tonight—this time before the New York trade. Last time, Carnera was bowled over and practically destroyed in less than three rounds during a sort of Ajax-defying-the-lightning performance that lifted Leroy all the way from the role of the roustabout into the headlines.

Notables To Attend

However, they were Philadelphia headlines and it is an axiom of the trade that you must sell your goods to the cloak-and-suiters here. So they're back again tonight the scene, Ebbets field; the distance, as many as ten-rounds—or fewer than one.

It will be the first of the big outdoor fights here this summer with a gate of perhaps $50,000, and like medicos hovering over the well of a clinic, the event will be attended by Joe Louis, the black menace himself; Tunney, Dempsey, Mickey Walker, Tony Canzoneri and other champions, past and present. They are not interested in good, old Ajax namely, the now-pathetic Carnera, except as so much cadaver might interest a medical man. They want to see what this Haynes really has.

John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champ makes his bow with Charlie Massera, of Pittsburgh in a bout docketed for 10 rounds tonight and on Friday night Ali Baba, conqueror of Dick Shikat will take on another heavyweight, Ivan Rasputin. Both are open air affairs.

Scarcely ever does one ask the former champ, Jess Willard, points about his ring battles. However, few approach him who do not plead: "Mr Willard will you please stand up?" Willard is six feet six inches tall and weighed around 200 pounds when he milled. However, he has taken on weight and while he tips the beam now at about 275, he is able to get around with agility.

LeRoy Haynes and Primo Carnera are listed for another whirl tonight at Brooklyn. Sometime ago Haynes stowed Carnera away and the boys are wagering he will repeat tonight. Primo's friends say that if he loses tonight Carnera will have made his last pugilistic appearance in America.

A Greenwich Village revel, "Mexican Fiesta", has set a new style in hats. The Spanish—or Mexican—sailor, with strap under the chin, was worn down the back, with the chin strap around the neck to hold the chapeau from blowing away. This is one way of fighting the hatless fashion.

The latest sandals for summer wear are of printed crepe. Colors are red, green and yellow on white grounds. The vamp is made of lattice work straps, with slightly open toe. These sandals also come in white.

West Pittsburg Beats Mahoning

Continue To Head Lawrence Loop By Taking Sixth Straight Win

West Pittsburg continues to head the Lawrence County Baseball circuit having defeated Mahoning A. A. 2-1 at the E & A field yesterday, which made the sixth consecutive victory for West Pittsburg.

Tonsetic was the winning pitcher. He struck out three and allowed five hits. Forgione hurled for Mahoning, permitted seven hits and forced seven batters to succumb to his curves.

Cardella and J. Elsesser came through with doubles.

Shenangos Lead League In Class B Softball; E. S. Merchants Win Game

Those up and coming young Shenangos took the Gersons to the cleaners last night at Dean park field 3 to 2 in a class B softball league game. The game was one of the best of the year and makes the Shenangos dangerous threats to the other teams in the league.

Augostine started on the knoll for the Cleaners, but gave way to the fine pitching of Capp, who held the Gersons in check. Both teams had four hits. Lane was on the rubber for the Jewelers. Ambrosia upset the Gerson apple-cart in the third with a double that scored two runs. The Gersons could not hit when hits meant runs.

Thursday the Cleaners will play the South Side Merchants in a battle for first place in the league. Manager Joe Cherby announced the signing of a new hurler, Bob Carson.

EAST SIDE MERCHANTS WIN

The mighty East Side Merchants softball team climaxed the First U. P. team last night at Lehigh field 10 to 4 in a class B league battle. The Merchants, under Harry "Hoppy" Mack, used four heavers in the game, Reznick, Shaftic, Slosernick and Laitenen. The First U. P. had Stitzinger on the knoll. Heavy hitting was done by "Alabama" Kirol, "Whitey" Krezo, Shaftic and Laitenen. The Merchants will go to Ellwood City for a game tonight. The players are asked to report at the corner at 4:45 o'clock sharp.

KEYSTONE JUNIORS WIN ONE

Those clever Keystone A. C. Juniors softball players finally hit their true stride last night at the Clifton Flats field and took the measure of the South Side Merchants 13 to 4, with George "Pop" Adams on the rubber for the Keys and hurling a fine five-hitter. "Gabby" Kendra and Smokey Alexander divided pitching duties for the losers and were found for 12 hits. The heavy clubbers in the game were George "Pop" Adams, "Cash" Koszela, Gentsy and Alexander.

GRADUATE LARGEST CLASS AT ELLWOOD

167 Students Receive Diplomas At Commencement Exercises Tuesday Night

DR. BEN G. GRAHAM DELIVERS ADDRESS

ELLWOOD CITY, May 27.—The largest class to ever be graduated from Ellwood City high school was that of Tuesday evening, when 167 received diplomas at impressive commencement exercises in the Lincoln auditorium. There was an overflow audience for the occasion.

Due to the size of the class it had to be given a reserved section in the main part of the auditorium and not on the stage as customary. Only the honor students, class officers, speakers and those participating in the evening's program were seated here. The class was attired in the customary gray caps and gowns with a red rose bud over the heart. Music for the occasion was provided by the high school band under the direction of Prof. Paul Winter.

Class Speakers.

After the invocation by the Rev. J. R. Routledge the salutatory address was given by Robert F. Strobel, whose topic was "Did You Hear It?". After extending greetings and welcome to all and thanking the parents and faculty for leading them to this memorable day, he spoke on the wonders and accomplishments of radio, a field in which there is still considerable room for work and progress. He told of its great and invaluable efficiency in crime detection and how it brought about the downfall of the nation's leading gangsters. The speaker declared that radio is still in its infancy and that this child's play to what can be expected in the future. The watchword then will be "Did You See It?"

Miss Gertrude Christiansen delivered the valedictory address on "Beyond Her Home", in which she told of women's work in the world. The women today are confronted with what to do with their lives and how best they can benefit civilization. The field is so much narrower for them. But to bring every day pleasure and relief from suffering to others is the noblest of all things to accomplish. The women of a not far gone age have become wives and mothers and then shoulder the responsibilities of rearing the family, being faithful to the last with no thought of reward. But since then the field for women has widened. She illustrated her point with stories of great women. Jane Addams had devoted her life to beneft the poor. She had improved living and employment conditions and brought joy and happiness to thousands. How Madam Marie Curie had worked against great odds to finally discover radium which brought immense relief to the ill. She told of Ruth Bryan Owen, the daughter of the famous William Jennings Bryan, who is now ambassador to Denmark. She told of the accomplishments of Amelia Earhart, the famous aviatrix, who has aided women to enlarge their opportunities. The speaker also named some outstanding state queens. In closing she turned to the class and said that true beauty, happiness and success in life is to make life worth living for someone else.

Dr. Graham Speaks.

The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, who was introduced by Supt. Vaughn R. DeLong. Dr. Graham's subject was "Leadership". He commended the class speakers for the fine talks and also the parents in making this occasion possible.

Dr. Graham declared that leadership is developed throughout the school life. In some it is immediately recognized, in others it is known only through a situation or crisis, and the third type is one who seizes an opportunity and turns it to his advantage. The speaker illustrated these with stories of his own class room teaching days and some of the great men and women of our country.

The first type of leadership is the possession of intellectual power and ability which brings on an unconscious recognition of leadership, such as that displayed by the brilliant mind of Charles Evans Hughes, the famous jurist. The power of intellect has taken Justice Hughes far in leadership. The second usually includes a magnetic personality and human sympathy. Woodrow Wilson was this and also a great intellect. In the third category would fall such men as William Jennings Bryan and Charles A. Lindbergh. Each of these seized opportunities to become famous. But once in a generation comes one who has all three types of leadership as that displayed by Theodore Roosevelt. In closing, Dr. Graham urged his listeners to be God fearing, and use their intelligence and education to become great citizens.

Preceding the address a brass sextette gave a selection entitled "The Lost Chord", and after a number by the orchestra entitled "The Little Sandman". The orchestra also opened the program with two selections. The class was presented by Principal Ralph C. Shaffer and the diplomas given out by Dr. H. E. Helling, president of the school board. The program closed with the pronouncement of the benediction by Rev. Milton A. May.

Damages Asked By Man Injured In Truck Crash

Vernon Kirker Files Suit Against Alfredo Graziano And Sons For $2500

CLAIM TRUCK HIT AUTO WHEN STOPPED

Vernon Kirker of Union township has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Alfredo, Viero and Arthur Graziano, trading as Alfredo Graziano & Sons, coal dealers of this city, in which he asks $2500 for injuries sustained in an automobile accident on the Weigletown-Energy road. Kirker claims that he was riding north on the road in a car driven by Verne Ferlong.

The road was icy and partly covered by snow. When about 1000 feet south of the intersection of the New Castle and Butler road, the Ferlong car, in which Kirker occupied the back seat, stopped at the foot of a hill, preparatory to ascending a grade. When the stop was made it is claimed that the Ferlong car was pulled as far to one side as it could go without getting off the improved section.

The Ferlong car was in this position when a truck, driven by Fred Graziano, in the employ of the defendant company, crashed into it from the rear. Kirker sustained a fracture of the external bone of the skull and was otherwise injured. He was in the New Castle hospital for 18 days, incurring a hospital bill of $61.50 and a doctor bill of $157. He also lost $104 in wages while off work. The balance of the amount is asked for pain and suffering. Plaintiff alleges that the accident was due to the high speed and careless driving of Graziano.

GRAHAM IS SPEAKER

Dr. Ben G. Graham, formerly superintendent of New Castle public schools, and now superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, will be the speaker at Beaver Falls high school commencement exercises on Friday evening.

At the left is the signature of a woman on the register card of the Hotel Plaza at Brattleboro, one of the clues which may lead to the discovery of her murderer. (Central Press)

Beatty's Animals Save Him Paying New Fine

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Clyde Beatty, 147-pound animal trainer today had his orderly beasts to thank for saving him from a second arrest on charges of "cruelty" to lions.

On an information made out yesterday by the humane society, Beatty and his helper, Captain William Bernardi, were arrested and fined $20 each for using iron bars to prod the animals and firing blank cartridges too near their faces during a local performance.

At the hearing, held before Alderman Ray E. Schnieder, Beatty answered the agents' charges:

"The lion and the tiger were fighting," he said. "I had to separate them and correct them. That is better than having two dead animals.

Chief humane society agent Smith then issued an ultimatum:

"I'm going out there armed with warrants tonight and if they do the same thing I'll arrest not only Beatty and Bernardi but the owners of the show as well."

The show went on, however, and the whip was cracked, the roaring beast padded through the runways and blank cartridges were fired Afterwards, Beatty quietly walked to his wagon. Commenting on the failure of Smith to carry out his threat, Beatty said:

"I had little trouble with them tonight. That's possibly why I wasn't arrested."

Beatty's troubles are not at an end yet, however, for tonight the show plays at Butler, (Pa.) which is also in the territory under chief Smith's jurisdiction.

Indiana School Controversy Has Politics Charge

New Assertions Are Made In Dispute Over Retention Of Dr. Foster

(International News Service)

INDIANA, Pa., May 27.—New charges of "politics" today were injected into the controversy raging around plans to dismiss Dr. Charles Foster, superintendent, and William Shuster, Bursar, of the Indiana State Teachers college.

A meeting at which W. F. Smith, of Punxsutawney, and D. R. Tomb, of Indiana, two members of the board of trustees recently appointed by Gov. George H. Earle, were to present demands for the dismissal of Dr. Foster and Shuster was postponed by Thomas Stutton, president of the board, who called another meeting for Thursday to consider the question.

Smith, meanwhile, said Dr. Foster, in whose behalf students, alumni and faculty petitioned Governor Earle, will be retained. Smith said a majority of the board favored Dr. Foster's dismissal at first and that he had defended him at a former meeting but that now "politics" had entered the controversy and the board will hold both the superintendent and the bursar.

Smith issued a challenge to Dr. Foster to debate questions concerning policies at the school. He said the meeting tomorrow was a result of the activities of foes of Governor Earle's administration.

Merchants Will Remain Open On Eve Of Coming Holidays

Action On Closing Stores Prior To Memorial Day And Fourth Is Rescinded

It was announced today that the merchants of New Castle, by a widespread vote, have rescinded previous action taken on closing the stores on the eve of the Memorial Day and Fourth of July holidays, and have decided to keep open until 9 p. m. on the evenings of May 29, and July 3, preceding these holidays.

At a meeting of the merchants held on May 20 it was decided that all stores should remain closed on these evenings but later it was learned that the merchants of our adjoining cities had decided to remain open and many of our merchants felt that to keep their stores closed on these two Friday evenings would deprive the public of the opportunity to purchase things needed which they would not have the time to purchase if the stores closed at 5:00 or 5:30 p. m. which has been customary.

The action of this vote does not compel anyone to keep his store open if he is inclined to close these evenings. Those who desire to remain open are privileged to do so.

Each merchant has been requested to place in his individual newspaper advertisement whether he will remain open or not on these evenings. Letters are being forwarded to all of the merchants advising them of the result of this mail vote.

New Castle Mutual Building And Loan Shares Are Insured

Local Organization Now Part Of Federal Insurance Corporation — Investors Are Guaranteed Funds

Savings invested in shares of the New Castle Mutual Building and Loan Association are now insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States Government, Norman E. Clark, Secretary of the association announced today upon receipt of a certificate of insurance from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, in Washington. Each individual investor in the association is now protected against loss of his account up to $5,000.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, created by Congress in 1934, affords protection for investors in thrift and home-financing institutions, similar to that given depositors in commercial banks by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, but with one material distinction. The FDIC, organized in 1933, insures the liquidity of bank deposits, while the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation operates in the field of long-term savings and home-financing, insuring the safety of investor's funds. All Federal savings and loan associations are required to qualify for insurance.

That the New Castle Mutual Building and Loan association has been admitted to insurance of accounts means that the assets of the association are rated at so high a grade that this agency of the Government is willing to indemnify investors in this association against possible future loss. Since insurance is extended only to well managed thrift institutions, the association is thus approved as to policies and operating methods. All accounts now on the association's books and future additions thereto are covered by insurance up to $5,000 each, regardless of the time they were opened. Also, all new accounts will be insured.

Anniversary Of Cantigny Observed

Local World War Veterans Recall First Major Engagement Of American Troops

May 28 is one date which sticks out in the memory of a number of New Castle boys who were members of the First Division during the World War, as it commemorates the anniversary of the battle of Cantigny, the first great battle of the World War for United States troops, which took place May 28, 1918.

The event is recalled by Dorsey McKee of this city, who was one of those who took part.

Participating in the engagement were the fifth, sixth and seventh artillery units and the 16th, 18th, 26th and 28th infantry regiments.

After a fierce struggle the American troops succeeded in wresting that section of the Montedier sector from German troops, and it never passed back into their possession, although it had been taken and retaken many times during the war prior to May 28, 1918.

O. W. HAZEN INJURED
